FREE Virtual Training For Mental Health Professional
Hosted by Give an Hour,

Foundations of Commercial Sexual Exploitation (CSE)

Description

Foundations of Commercial Sexual Exploitation (CSE) is a virtual training designed for mental health professionals seeking a deeper understanding of the complex dynamics that shape CSE. Grounded in trauma-informed principles and informed by lived experience, this session explores the distinct characteristics of CSE and how it differs from sex work and trafficking. Participants will gain insight into the systemic and personal vulnerabilities—such as poverty, systemic racism, and community normalization—that often lead individuals into exploitative circumstances. The training will also equip clinicians to recognize trauma responses and disclosure patterns common among CSE-impacted clients.

Key topics include identifying red flags during therapy, understanding coercion and survival-based entry pathways, and building therapeutic alliances that honor survivor autonomy without falling into rescue dynamics. This CEU-eligible session blends clinical frameworks with real-world examples to support culturally responsive, affirming care that centers safety, trust, and relational healing.
